

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides an ingestible composition comprising a plurality of components consisting of fat, carbohydrates, proteins, vitamins and minerals, wherein relative amounts of the components of the composition are chosen such that an intake of said product reduces the effects of metabolic syndrome.